

Pamphlet advises boaters of protocol near fishing nets

SCOTT DUNN
Sun Times staff

A new pamphlet advises boaters what to do if they encounter markers indicating commercial fishing nets submerged in Owen Sound and Colpoys bays.

It's the work of the governance committee of the recent native commercial fishing agreement between the Ontario government and the Saugeen Ojibway Nation. The joint committee directs and approves a work plan and budget each year to implement the accord.

See WARNINGS page A2